

2007: January

“Where’s The Fruit?” Study of fruit content in foods and beverages highly advertised to kids

I am very pleased to say that my new book “Coming Distractions: Questioning Movies” begins distribution soon by publisher Capstone Press. My book is one of 6 in a new media literacy series designed for students in grades 3-5.

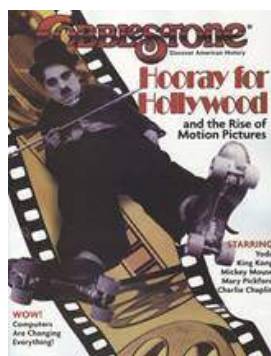

I hope you will look it up and consider acquiring it for your media center collection.

Cover Story of The Nation
January 29
issue:
Newspapers...and After?
Related:
Mirror, Mirror
On the Web

12 Carnegie-Knight Task Force Releases Report on Mandatory Testing and News in the Schools (PR; Full report; news story; Editor & Publisher version)

Cobblestone Magazine devotes entire issue to film

10: PTC
Issues New Study on violent content in television

“Media Education: A Kit for Teachers, Students, Parents and Professionals”

has been published in English and French by UNESCO.

Cable in The Classroom promotes new study/report:

“Media Literacy: A Vital & Underserved Need in Schools”