

2012: July-August

AUGUST

 The image shows the cover of Forbes magazine from August 2012. The cover features a photograph of Sofia Vergara, a television actress, wearing a white blazer. The magazine title 'Forbes' is prominently displayed at the top. Below the title, it says 'SOFIA VERGARA TELEVISION'S BEST PAID ACTRESS'. A large headline reads 'THE NEXT MEDIA JACKPOT'. Other text on the cover includes 'CHINA'S STEVE JOBS • WHY THE WORLD WANTS AMERICA'S OIL' and 'REAL MONEY: THE NEWEST INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR 2012'. At the bottom, it says 'MURDOCH, ZUCKERBERG AND DISNEY SET TO TAKE CONTROL OF THE $1 TRILLION HUMAN MEDIA MARKET'.	Sofia Vergara's Rich Little Secret: A Multi Million Media Empire Meghan Casserly With little fanfare outside the insular Latino media community, Vergara and partner Luis Balaguer have shrewdly built up their company, Latin World Entertainment, from a Miami talent-management firm into a licensing, marketing, production and new-media powerhouse.
---	--

JULY

Why Should We Care About Media Literacy? July 29, 2012, Education Week

26 Here Come The Conventions (USA Today Teacher's Lounge)

 The image shows the cover of Newsweek magazine. The cover features a photograph of a young boy with his hands on his ears, looking distressed. The magazine title 'Newsweek' is at the top. Below it, the headline reads 'iCRAZY'. Underneath, it says 'PAIN, DEPRESSION, PSYCHOSIS: HOW CONNECTION ADDICTION IS IMPROVING DECADES'. At the bottom, it says 'THE GUNWALKER PRINCE'S GAZING WHY WAS HIS SOCIETY SO BRUTAL?'.	Newsweek Cover Story: Tweets, texts, emails, posts. New research says the Internet can make us lonely and depressed—and may even create more extreme forms of mental illness, Tony Dokoupil reports.
--	---

6 Part 3 of my interview with SLJ

	Teaching Critical Thinking Through Media Literacy
	By: Chris Sperry
	Viral News: Media Literacy for the 21st Century
	By: Michelle Klosterman, Troy Sadler, and Julie Brown

I was interviewed in Columbia (SC) Metro magazine about the NICK theatre's relocation and future plans.