

Food: Lesson Plans

DECONSTRUCTING ADS FOR SNACK AND JUNK FOOD WHICH TARGET YOUNG CHILDREN

Written and produced by Frank Baker, Copyright 2004

Highly Recommended:

 The image shows the cover of a book titled "Critical Thinking & Health: Nutrition and TV Commercials". The cover features a collage of various food products and TV commercial images. Logos for "LOOK SHARP" and "FITHCA" are visible at the bottom.	Critical Thinking & Health: Nutrition and TV Commercials Project LookSharp Grades (K-2)
--	---

Links to Other Lesson Plans:

- Lesson plan: Advertising Activities for Kids
- Lesson plan: Advertising and Marketing Food to Children
- Lesson Plan: Butter or Margarine
- Lesson Plan: Co Co's Adversmarts
- Lesson plan: Critically Analyzing Info about Dairy Products on the Internet
- Lesson plan: Food For Thought: Challenging Big Food/Media's Monopoly Over Our Media Culture (ACME)
- Lesson Plan: It's in the Box
- Lesson plan: Junk Food Jungle
- Lesson Plan: Looking at Food Advertising
- Lesson Plan: Looks Good Enough to Eat, An exploration of food styling in ads

- Lesson Plan: Media Influences on Nutritional Practices
- Lesson plans: Media-Smart Youth (NIH curriculum)
- Lesson plan: Media Wise: Critical questions about food ads
- Lesson Plan: Obesity, Food Habits and Weight Loss (PBS)
- Lesson Plan: Online Marketing to Kids
- Lesson Plan: Packaging Tricks
- Lesson plan Rooting Out the Truth in Food Ads
- Lesson Plan: We'll be right back after these messages (pg.9-11)
- Lesson Plan: You've Gotta Have a Gimmick: A Lesson in Junk Food Advertising